

WHAT IF THEY NEVER EXISTED?

BY NICOLA SASANELLI

“Today it is impossible to conceive of a world without mobile phones, washing machines or for that matter any one of the electrical appliances that we use in our everyday life”.

In “What if They Never Existed” Nicola Sasanelli focuses on nine significant scientists in history whose works and discoveries have helped change the world.

Scientific Attaché at the Italian Embassy in Canberra since 2001, Nicola Sasanelli is also an accomplished artist with works in collections around the world, and inspired by these scientists he has created a collection of paintings as a tribute to them.

His book carries the message that for important research to continue there must be strong support from politicians and laymen alike, and that there is a need for young people to be imbued with the same curiosity and excitement that first compelled him to study science and to become a researcher.

Proudly sponsored by Vodafone all profits from sales of “What if They Never Existed” are to be used to establish a scholarship fund for science and research studies for Australian and Italian students.
